2016 Highlight

Withee Tai community project.

- ▶ (Impact on volunteers)
- ▶ Story: We had our first International Family camp last August. The parents of the French family let the kids totally free to mix with the local kids. The feeling not to have to worry for them because you are in a safe community environment was wonderful for them. Exchanges about education were really interesting and building the clay house was so meaningful: We can build a house by our hands..

Withee Tai community project.

- ▶ In the community of Withee Tai, members try to free themselves from any kind of slavery from the mind to the body and the entire society. “The important domains we try to be free from are education, economy, society and health. It should be starting by ourselves, then the family, the community (natural or chosen), the country, the world. We want to change the world by acting locally, not only dream. Everyone is responsible.”

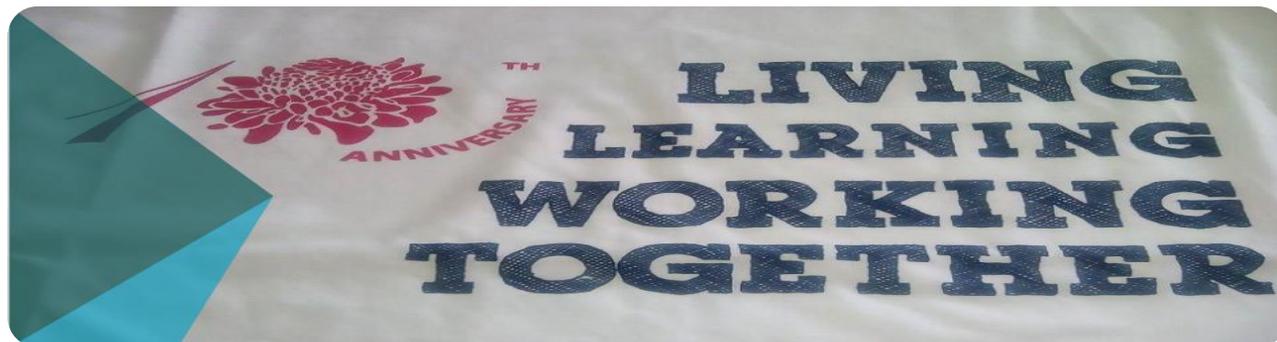

- ▶ They are planting and collecting their food as much as possible, cooking with wood fire, build a clay house for volunteers, use alternative way for health, walking, yoga, and started a green market at the next small town. The community learning centre has now 9 children registered (who don't need to go to regular school). Impact is to make participants responsible for themselves and others.

Tayang learning home project.

- ▶ (Impact on communities)
- ▶ Story: At the end of a workcamp, we organize the 3rd anniversary of TaYang learning home, one of our MLTV project. The host Bang Leem opened his house to volunteers and locals to bring back life in the village through education matters. The festival brought about 1000 people from the village together, for the first time since a long time. Since then, villagers have more trust in Bang Leem and kids come even more to meet the volunteers.
